STORY OF HOPE

Three years ago, at just 10 years of age, Jonus attended his first archery class, and he was hooked. Jonus wanted to attend archery classes at the Marion Salvation Army because he wanted to be like Marvel's Hawkeye. His older siblings had attended the archery program for several years and were able to tell him all about how fun it was. As a homeschool student, archery class is a great way for Jonus to engage with other kids and adults outside of his normal group of friends and get his PE credits.

Through the archery program, Jonus says that he has learned to find the fun in anything. Sarah Welch, the archery teacher at the Marion Corps for 13 years, says that archery is a great way to teach a lot of life skills like teamwork, focus, concentration, respect, and self-confidence. Jonus has begun to develop each of those skills weekly and thinks the program has helped him grow closer to God because each week he gets to learn a bit more about God and spend time praying. Archery class is one of Jonus' favorite activities of the week as he loves to learn and spend time with his friends.
