STORY OF HOPE

One day Mark made his way into The Salvation Army of Columbus for help. He knew about some of the resources they offered because his mother had been attending Sunday morning gatherings. When Mark first entered the Corps, he was homeless and struggling with addiction. The first course of action for Nancy, the case worker at the corps, was to love and listen to Mark. Nancy got him resources through their food pantry and community partners. When Mark was ready, Nancy got him into The Salvation Army's Adult Rehabilitation Center in Indianapolis. He graduated from the program with flying colors.

Recently, Mark came to visit Nancy after a flood, just to check in. He did not ask for any help but Nancy wanted to see how the storm had impacted him. After talking for awhile, Nancy knew Mark needed a new solar panel or generator, as he was living in a camper and that was his way of obtaining power. The recent flood had also greatly damaged the wood in his flooring. Nancy quickly set to work to find funds and partners to help repair the damage from the storm so he did not end up homeless again. The Salvation Army of Columbus was able to help Mark in so many ways for many years, Nancy said, "I was just there to love him."
