STORY OF HOPE

The Salvation Army of Shelbyville's homeless services are changing lives every day by simply providing a place of acceptance. A 55-year-old man named Charles has been receiving assistance from the Shelbyville corps for quite some time and has not only seen a difference in his life but the lives of others in his community. Charles is a homeless alcoholic who says that "The Salvation Army has been a big part of my recovery, it breaks barriers, and changes people". When Charles came into the corps, he felt alone, broken and unable to communicate with others. Through the homeless ministry, Charles has had opportunities to connect with resources and others in his community, bringing more hope to his life. Charles explained that being a part of this ministry has provided him with a purpose and a place to be surrounded by people who love him. The Salvation Army meets people where they are without judgment. "The Salvation Army takes our homelessness, our pasts, our addictions, our shame and guilt and brings us together" said Charles, "it is a beacon of hope".
